

THE YEAR THAT LIES AHEAD

PRESIDENT JACOB ZUMA AND THE ANC

DIFFICULT: President Jacob Zuma might not finish his term

SANDY predicts this year will be a very, difficult year for the ANC, saying "they cannot hide as many untruths will be revealed".

And Belinda believes ANC heavyweights may even persuade President Zuma to step down.

Belinda says: "The spirits say that right now, he [Zuma] does not have a 'Plan B' for his life post-office and this could be causing him extreme stress.

"In 2015, his health was not good, something to do with the workings of his body, they are not ticking correctly and can be disease, blood and or heart related."

Sandy says: "From February

2016 onwards, he will be in his worst year all the way through to 2017, and thereafter it does not get any easier for him till 2019.

"There is a big move starting February 2016, he will be directionless, not know where he is going, be very defensive, and defiant and must be wary of accidents around him.

"He will have many legal issues coming his way through to April 2017 and should seek to reach a settlement or this will affect his [financial and other] security.

"Due to this, he may even not see his term through, citing health as a reason."

THE DA, PATRICIA DE LILLE AND HELEN ZILLE

MASTERMIND: Premier Helen Zille

SANDY says Helen Zille needs to be more careful with her health.

"Personally I believe she has some health problems looming, some operation will be required or at least she will be seeing specialist doctors," she says.

"There are some internal legal issues and decisions that need to be made within the DA about Helen and Patricia de Lille [who must join hands and not unseat one another], as partnership is the key word versus splitting or resigning.

"Personally, Patricia is questioning who she is, where she wants to go and what she wants to do, and as she hits her birthday, her personal life and health will be unsettled."

Belinda adds: "Helen Zille will feel increasingly disillusioned by the lack of acknowledgement of her contribution to SA history.

"In 2016, she will be a force to be reckoned with as the mastermind behind an outstanding election campaign that will increase the influence of the DA substantially as they move into place to become the next ruling party.

"Mmusi Maimane is well on the way to becoming a future President of the Republic of South Africa.

"He will have significant challenges from both the 'right' and the 'left' this year, but these mud-slinging matches will only enhance his reputation."

UNSETTLED: Mayor Patricia de Lille

THE EFF AND JULIUS MALEMA

A NEW-LOOK Julius Malema will emerge in 2016 to lead the EFF through internal battles.

Belinda says: "The EFF will continue their campaign of nationalisation but they will not make much progress in this regard as yet.

"There will be dissent in their ranks as there will be squabbling amongst the communist and socialist factions.

"However, the EFF will gain additional credibility, and Julius Malema will be restyled and glossed-up to be marketed as a leader of note too."

MARIUS FRANSMAN

BOTH women warn it won't be a good year for the ANC Western Cape boss.

"He is not in a good year in the public eye and is very unsettled as he will have a few legal issues around him," says Sandy.

"They will not go away.

"The ANC is in the public year of discovery and disclosure, and he is one that will not be able to avoid the effect he has on the ruling party and may be asked to resign, with resistance. He is about money and power, and misuses his power."

Belinda adds: "Marius Fransman could be in for a rough ride as it appears that the allegations of sexual harassment that have been made against him are not going to go away quietly.

"He should possibly brace himself for other accusers stepping forward [there is no indication whether there would be truth in these allegations] and he would then need to field these attacks on his character too.

"He could need to re-invent himself on both a personal and a professional level."
